I see no reason why ferret ownership should be illegal in the state of California, since we're only one of two states (with Hawaii) in which ferrets are not legal. Although I can't promise I would vote for any legislation based solely on a general description and would need to review the exact language, I support the concept of legalizing ferret ownership in California.
California has many problems right now and I don't feel the legalization of ferret ownership is an important priority so I can't promise I would introduce legislation.
